

Sales Tax Holiday: Other States and Incidence

PRESENTED TO SENATE FINANCE COMMITTEE LEGISLATIVE BUDGET BOARD STAFF

MARCH 2016

Sales Tax Holidays: Other States

Nineteen states including Texas have one or more sales tax holiday provisions

- Provisions may cover a variety of goods, ranging from hurricane supplies in Alabama, Louisiana and Virginia to computer software in Missouri
- The most common provisions are for clothing and school supplies, followed by computer equipment and EnergyStar appliances
- Exemptions also have a broad monetary range, from $100 for clothing and school supplies to $6,000 for EnergyStar; there are also provisions with no cap at all.

Sales Tax Holidays: Tax Incidence

- Tax Incidence analysis estimates how the imposition of a tax effects the distribution of income. It is a "Who Pays" analysis
- Comptroller of Public Accounts produces biennial report (Government Code 403.014) on the incidence of various Texas taxes and certain exemptions, exclusions, discounts, etc. to those taxes
- LBB produces similar analysis for proposed legislation effecting Texas taxes
- "Initial" Incidence tables show the how much tax different business industries and individual consumers pay
  - For exemptions, exclusions, etc. the interpretation is the opposite → How much taxes reduced
- "Final" Incidence tables show the following after all taxes have been passed on from businesses to consumers through changes to prices, wages, return on capital, etc.
  - Amount of tax paid or reduced in Texas by Household Income quintile
  - Amount of tax paid or reduced by out of state residents (Exported)
  - Effective tax rates by Household Income quintile
